Salama Stoves October 2016 Press Release

Dr. Stice, plastic surgeon and founder of Salama Stoves, will arrive with a 16 member medical team on October 22 this year to work at the Nakuru Provincial General Hospital. They will be collaborating with the local professionals at the Provincial Hospital to work on several projects including establishing a burn reconstructive center. International Medical Exchange, Inc. has been working in Kenya for the past 8 years and has recently been invited to begin projects with the Provincial Hospital's medical staff. Dr. Stice's projects include taking care of burn patients brought in by the surgical staff and to collaborate with the Provincial Hospital's surgeons to perform reconstructive procedures. The team will be in Nakuru for 2 weeks. During that time Dr. Stice and her stove team will evaluate the progress the organization has made so far in preventing burns. They will also meet with the other stakeholders in burn care and stove production in the region.

Chris Beaty a professional welder from Metro Community College in Omaha Nebraska is coming to Kenya (along with Dr. Stice) to join the Salama Stove team on the ground to understand how the project works from all angles. He will be joining Justus and Todd in the field installing stoves and doing follow up surveys. Furthermore he will be going to the manufacturer to see how they actually produce the stove. Salama Stoves welcomes this initiative, as step towards partnering with Metro Community College in Omaha in the future, as they expand their international programming.

Todd Wofchuck Salama Stoves country manager recently raised over $6000 from a GoFundMe Campaign, to help support the work of Salama Stoves by hiking to the summit of Mt. Kilimanjaro
